Decision of the Supreme Court. JUDGES-SAM MILLIGAN, JAMES C. SHACKELFORD, AND ALVIN HAWKINS.

THOMAS H. CALDWELL, Attorney General and Re-WILLIAM CORLEY on SARAH CORLEY, et al.

This is an action of ejectment, to recover a small tract of land in Smith county. At the March term, 1861, of the Cir-cuit Court for said county, a trial was had, which resulted in a verdict and judgment in favor of the defendants. The plaintiff moved the court for a new trial, which being refused he has presecuted an appeal to this court.

Both parties claim title to the land in controversy under Mathew Corley. This defendant, Sarah, is the widow, and the other defendants are the children of said Mathew Corley by said Sarsh, and the plaintiff is the child of the said Mathw by a former marriage.

The plaintiff having filed an affidavit, stating the original

had been lest or mislaid, or was fraudulently suppressed by the defendants, offered and read in cridence, without objection, a copy of deed of gift of the land in controversy from his fath-er to himself, dated December 1st, 1837, the execution of which was acknowledged before the Clerk of the County Court for Smith county on the 4th of December, and which was regis-tered in the office of the Register for said county on the 13th day of December, 1837.

The defendants read a copy of the will of Mathew Corley, lated on the 18th of October, and admitted to probate in the County Court of said county at the November term thereof in 1850, by which he devised the land in controversy, to the defendant, Sarah, for life, or during her widowhood, with remainder to the other defendants mainder to the other defendants.

It appears from the proof that Mathew Corley was a man in humble circumstinces and was about eighty years of age at the time of his death, in October, 1859, and had continued to reside upon and cultivate the land from the date of the deed passenger trains on the East Tennessee and Virginia in 1837, up to the time of his death, and during that time frequently rented portions of it to others. The plaintiff was Railroad will leave Knoxville at 7:50, A. In 1851 he rented a part of the land from his father, which he cultivated to himself, and Trains on the East Tennessee and Georgia Rail- | for which he paid the rent. We have not received any such supply, nor do we know of any such supply being on the way. On for not cutting wood on the land, that it belonged to William, and be was afraid William would not like it. There is no proof in the record showing that Mathew Corley ever, at any time subsequently to the date of the deed until a short time before his death, in any manner disputed William's title to the land, or that in any manner, at any time, he de-nied the execution and delivery of the deed of gift; or that at any time after date of the deed in 1837 up to a short time west. Such is our information by letter, as well as through the press. As we have an abundance in this State, it will pay to take care of it, and prepare tence of the deed, and likewise from the date of the deed, up to a short time before his death, recognized the validity of the dones's title under it. 3. Resolved, That a copy of the above resolutions ceased. Upon the trial "a deed of gift made by the testator against the testator, was also read. The deed was made to evade the dreaded consequences of the action for slander. It was not considered and acted on by the parties as an absolute gift, and the testator continued to claim and possess the slaves as his own, as though the gift had never been made.

Now, by applying the rules laid down in the cases cited to the facts in this case, as they appear in the record, we are clearly of the opinion that the deed of gift of December 1st, 1857, is valid, and operates to vest in the done the title to the land in controversy. And the fact that the doner continued to reside upon, cultivate and rent out the said land from the date of the deed, in 1857, to the time of his death, in property and paying charges. against the testator, was also read. The deed was made to rom the date of the deed, in 1857, to the time of his death, in 1859, and that in 1851 he actually rented a portion of the land o the donce, who paid the rent, and that the land was liste for taxes, in the name of the donor who paid the taxes, when taken in connection with the other facts in the case, together with the off repeated declaration of the donor concerning the
